

POLITICIANS MEET AT DETROIT, MICH.

TENTH NATIONAL CONVENTION OF REPUBLICAN CLUBS.

Much Enthusiasm Shown—President McKinley Sends Greetings From The White House—Men of Prominence Lay Plans For the Capture of the Presidency.

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—The tenth annual convention of the National League of Republican Clubs opened its session at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Auditorium. The seats in the hall were divided into sections for the different states. Ohio, Missouri, Vermont, Wyoming, New Hampshire, California, Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, Maryland and Florida occupied the central section; Indiana, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Kansas, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and Connecticut were grouped on the left, and Illinois, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Minnesota, Kentucky, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, East and West Virginia and Alabama on the right.

GOVERNOR PINGREE.

There were fully 1,500 delegates present, and twice as many spectators. The Rev. R. J. Service opened the session with prayer, after which President Woodmansee introduced Gov. Pingree.

While the governor was speaking, Gov. Tanner came in, followed by the Illinois delegation. The delegates jumped to their feet and cheer after cheer resounded through the building.

PRESIDENT WOODMANSEE.

The din was so great that the governor was obliged to wait several minutes before he could continue. When Pingree concluded both governors had a quiet talk for about five minutes.

Col. Duffield in behalf of the city welcomed the delegates. President Dingley, of the state league, followed him.

President Woodmansee followed with his address. After congratulating the league on the fact that the debts of the organization had been paid, he recommended that the national convention of the league be held upon a fixed day of the year and that the state leagues throughout the Union hold their conventions on the same day.

The following telegram from President McKinley to President Woodmansee was read: "I offer through you my heartiest congratulations on the tenth annual convention of the Republican League and my continued best wishes for the increased usefulness and prosperity of that worthy organization."

Telegrams of regret were read from Vice President Hobart, Secretary Sherman, Senators Allison, Quay, Wellington, Warren, Fairbanks, Burrows, Speaker Reed, Congressmen Grosvenor, Dingley, Fowler, Henderson, Secretaries Alger, Gary, Gage, Long, Wilson, Pension Commissioner Evans and others.

M. J. Dowling has announced authoritatively that he is a candidate for reelection for secretary. He appeared at the Minnesota caucus and said he did not want the office. A committee met him later and to the question, whether, if elected, he would accept, he answered, "Yes, but my friends must do the work."

With this in view the race for the presidency has practically narrowed down to L. J. Crawford of Newport, Ky., and Fred W. Fleitz of Pennsylvania. The report that Dowling may be a candidate for the presidency is untrue.

At the mass-meeting at night the speakers were Charles Emory Smith of Philadelphia, Webster Davis of Kansas City, Mo., John R. Tanner of Illinois, Admiral Beardslee Ready—He Is Empowered to Land a Force and Raise the America Flag Over the Islands Whenever He Thinks Such a Course Is Necessary.

Washington, July 14.—President McKinley and his cabinet gave full consideration Tuesday to the Hawaiian question and to the present diplomatic tangle with the Japanese government. In view of the instructions sent to Rear Admiral L. A. Beardslee some days ago, which empowered him to land a force and raise the flag over Honolulu, the President is satisfied that there will be no chance of Japan or any other power securing a foothold on the island. But should the situation become serious enough to warrant it there is reason to believe that the administration will re-enforce the Pacific squadron by the addition of vessels from the Atlantic coast.

There has been some desultory talk in administration and naval circles in regard to the increase of the force under the command of Rear Admiral Beardslee. Any reduction in the strength of the north Atlantic squadron would naturally cause the administration to defer putting into execution a strong policy with respect to Cuba, but the authorities would still retain a sufficient force on the eastern coast to defend it from foreign attack.

Administration officials hope that Japan will accept the offer of Hawaii to arbitrate the immigration question, and as the reply sent by Minister Cooper was in accordance with instructions sent to him by the state department, no doubt is felt that in case the award of the arbitrators should be against the Dole authorities this government would not object to guaranteeing the paying of the debt.

Minister Hoshi Tuesday sent a cablegram to his government informing it of the purpose of the administration as revealed in the instructions to Admiral Beardslee. Administration officials are curious to know what effect the instructions have had upon the Japanese temper.

MINERS SATISFIED THAT THEY CAN WIN

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS IN THE BIG COAL STRIKE.

Arbitration Is Abandoned—Operators Show So Much Opposition to the Plan That It Is Not Considered Feasible—Indiana Mines Are Completely Closed Down.

Arbitration efforts scored a virtual failure in the coal-miners' strike yesterday, and the boards visiting Pittsburg decided to attempt to bring miners and operators together on the agreement of 1896.

Many more mines are announced as shut down, and but one or two are reported as reopening.

Organizers have been sent into many fields where miners have not yet laid down their tools. Eugene V. Debs, among others, is assigned to this work.

In order to keep the strikers from becoming lukewarm, mass-meetings have been held in many places and new resolutions have been passed declaring for a continuance of the strike.

Every mine of importance in Indiana is now closed.

West Virginia is the next field of attack, and the organizers are gathering there. It is declared that if one body of miners goes out, most of the others will follow.

In Illinois the miners of the Springfield district, 3,750 in number, have voted to strike. Bloomington miners, who were supposedly settled, are threatening to strike. LaSalle, among other places, is reported as threatened with a coal famine. In Chicago stocks are running lower and prices higher.

From Danville a fight is reported between strikers and colored miners, who are at work, in which weapons were used. Several men were wounded and one is reported killed.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 14.—Tuesday the members of the arbitration boards of Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana practically abandoned the arbitration scheme and took a new tack. After listening for two hours to W. P. De Armit's recital of the troubles among the coal operators and miners, and hearing him make the positive declaration that he will never consent to arbitrate or discuss the situation with Messrs. Ratchford, Dolan and Warner, the miners' leaders, they concluded that arbitration was out of the question.

Instead of bringing the operators and miners together in the hope of compromising the strike, they will now take up the old question of true uniformity. They think they can accomplish what the operators' and miners' officials heroically labored for months to do—get 97 per cent of the operators to agree to uniform mining conditions. They will take up the old agreement of February, 1896, and will try to get the operators to sign it. No one here thinks they will be successful.

Destitution in Indiana.

Brazil, Ind., July 14.—The miners here are firm, and hopeful of gaining the strike, notwithstanding they are almost destitute. A commissary was established here Tuesday, stocked with twelve barrels of flour, 400 pounds of meat and about 100 pounds of coffee. The committee having the store in charge began supplying the wants of the hungry men, women and children that blockaded the sidewalk in front of the store at 9 o'clock. In less than five hours all the provisions were gone, and numerous families were refused food. About 100 families were given rations. The managers of the commissary say that there were at least 500 families needing immediate aid.

Organizers Are Busy.

Columbus, O., July 14.—What the national miners' officials regard as a substantial increase in strike sentiment had the effect of putting headquarters in a good humor Tuesday. News that eight organizers have left Pittsburg for the West Virginia neutral grounds, that the men at Flemington have gone out through sympathy and that the miners in Sullivan county, Indiana, have quit work were the three things that contributed most to the sum of human happiness. The most important transaction of the day was the selection of six labor leaders to be sent into West Virginia.

Springfield District Out.

Springfield, Ill., July 14.—At a mass meeting of coal-miners, representing every coal shaft in the Springfield district, held at Starne's junction, it was unanimously determined to suspend operations and join the general coal-miners' strike. Nearly 3,750 men are affected by the action.

Coal Famine in Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 14.—Coal mine operators and railroad managers say that if the miners hold out three weeks longer they will bring about a coal famine in this state. Very few large concerns dependent on coal have more than two weeks' supply of fuel.

Three Frozen to Death.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 13.—A letter just received here from Alaska brings particulars of the terrible death of three men—Blackstone, Botcher and Mollique—who were frozen to death while endeavoring to carry mail from Sunrise City across the glacier to Prince William Sound.

LIMIT FIXED AT $300.

Senate Decides No More Shall Be Paid for Armor Plate.

Washington, July 14.—The price to be paid for armor plate for the three new battle-ships now in course of construction was the theme of extended and at times lively debate in the senate Tuesday. Late in the day an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill was agreed to restricting the price of armor plate to $300 per ton, or $125 less than the amendment reported by the committee, and recommended by the navy department as the minimum rate acceptable to the armor contractors. Another amendment inserted in the bill directed the secretary of the navy to investigate as to the establishment of a government armor factory and to report to the next session of congress.

An amendment was adopted to pay a balance of $14,485 to claimants under the Spanish-American claims commission and then the deficiency bill was passed. At 5:50 p. m. the senate held an executive session and then adjourned.

The house took a recess Tuesday until today at noon, without transacting any business. The house was in session but three minutes.

Big Oil Find in Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., July 14.—What is said to be the greatest discovery of fuel ever made is reported from Alaska. Some gold prospectors several months ago ran across what seemed to be a lake of oil. The lake was fed by innumerable springs and the surrounding mountains were full of coal. They brought samples to Seattle and tests proved it to be of as high grade as any ever taken out of Pennsylvania wells. A local company was formed and experts sent up. It is said there is enough oil and coal in the discovery to supply the world. It is close to the ocean—in fact, the experts say the oil oozes out into the salt water. It is said that the Standard Oil company has already made an offer for the property.

Toronto in Gay Attire.

Toronto, Ont., July 14.—The prospects for a successful gathering of the Elworth leagues are of the brightest character. Already the vanguard of the army of leaguers is present, and the rest will arrive to-day and the day after. The housing and feeding of the delegates have been a big problem for the committee, but there is every reason to expect that the work will be accomplished without friction and to the satisfaction of all concerned. There is considerable variation in the estimates that have been made of the number of delegates. Some state their belief that 15,000 will cover it, while others expect over 30,000.

Colonel Crocker May Die.

San Francisco, July 14.—The condition of Colonel Charles F. Crocker, vice president of the Southern Pacific railroad, is reported as unchanged. While a tone of hopefulness runs through all that is said by physicians and friends, it is admitted that Colonel Crocker's condition is one of extreme gravity, and even in the most encouraging statements there is a suggestion of dread of what may be expected.

Thought to Be Hermans.

Pembroke, Ont., July 14.—The authorities here have in custody a man supposed to be Rev. Francis Hermans, who, in 1895, murdered and cremated Miss Henrietta Claussen of Salt Lake. The man, who calls himself Hamilton, has been in this vicinity for some time, acting in the capacity of a clergyman on his own responsibility.

Wealthy Prospector Commits Suicide.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—Nicholas C. Creede, the millionaire mine owner, after whom the town of Creede, Cal., is named, committed suicide with morphine Monday at his home in this city, because his wife, from whom he had separated, insisted upon renewing their marital relations.

Cruiser Raleigh Leaves Tangier.

Washington, July 14.—Admiral Selfridge, from Tangier, has reported the sailing of the Raleigh from that port for Gibraltar. His message did not refer to the difficulty with the Moorish officials which called the San Francisco and the Raleigh to Tangier, so it is assumed it has been adjusted.

Cuban Losses Are Heavy.

Madrid, July 14.—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Havana says that in the engagements which have taken place within the last ten days the Spanish have lost twenty-one men killed and ninety-seven wounded, and the insurgents 225 killed and 414 surrendered.

Photographers in Session.

Jamestown, N. Y., July 14.—President Hayes of Detroit called the eighteenth annual convention of the Photographers' association of America to order Tuesday morning at Celeron-on-Chautauqua. There is an attendance of about 1,200 members of the association.

Furniture Dealers Meet.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 14.—The National Retail Furniture Dealers' association elected A. J. Conroy, Cincinnati, president. The association will meet in Chicago next year. The policy to be pursued toward manufacturers who sell at retail was discussed in executive session.

ASHLAND COUNTY OFFICIAL COMMITS SUICIDE.

He Was Charged With Passing Orders While Holding An Office—Suit Against Rambusch's Bondsmen—Sheriff and Posse Seek For Irish Anne's Slayer.

Ashland, Wis., July 14.—[Special]—Heydlauff, the Ashland county official who was charged with passing forged county orders, committed suicide this morning.

Juneau, Wis., July 14.—[Special]—The bondsmen of the late W. T. Rambusch, the absconder, who paid $25,000 shortage, have begun a suit to compel the former bondsmen to stand their share of the shortage.

Murderer Is Seen.

Hurley, Wis., July 14.—[Special]—The Finlander who murdered "Irish Annie" here several weeks ago, was seen yesterday in the woods a few miles from here. The sheriff and a posse are after him now.

ILLINOIS IN THE LEAD.

Estimate of Delegates at Christian Endeavor Convention.

San Francisco, July 14.—At length it is possible to state with a close approach to exactitude how many delegates attended the Christian Endeavor convention. The registration committee has made a report by states and counties of the number of people registered. The total number of people from other states, territories and foreign countries in attendance is 11,224. From California the registration is 12,694, making a total of 23,918.

From these figures it will be seen that the actual attendance upon the convention is surprisingly close to the advance estimates that were made.

Outside of California the biggest delegation was from Illinois, that state sending 1,683, Iowa being next, Pennsylvania third, followed by Ohio, New York, Missouri and Massachusetts, in the order given.

It is interesting to notice that the women from all places outside the state were almost twice as numerous as the men, the figures being: Women, 7,477; men, 3,747.

Victory for the Trusts.

Albany, N. Y., July 14.—Justice Alden Chester has vacated the orders granted by him upon the application of the attorney-general in June last, compelling the presidents of the various anthracite coal road companies to appear before a referee as witnesses in a procedure under the new antitrust laws, to determine whether there is an alleged illegal contract arrangement or combination in violation of chapters 383 and 384 of the laws of 1897, and in which they or their roads are participants.

Big Banks to Be Consolidated.

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—It is announced that the Midland National bank, of which S. Barbour of the Armour Packing company is president, is to be consolidated with the National Bank of Commerce and that the deal has reached a point where only the sanction of the comptroller of the currency is needed to consummate it. The officials of neither bank will give any information as to the details of the transaction.

Want Barrett Retained.

San Francisco, July 13.—Advices from Siam per steamship Doric say that a petition has been forwarded by the American residents in Siam to President McKinley asking that the present United States minister resident and consul general, John Barrett, be retained at that post during the new administration.

Eight Tramps Killed.

Bicycles Need Not Pay Toll.

Lansing, Mich., July 14.—In a unanimous opinion handed down the supreme court held that being propelled by human agency a bicycle is not a vehicle in the sense that persons riding them need pay toll to plank road and similar companies.

Slays Her on the Street.

Vancouver, B. C., July 14.—A sensational double tragedy took place on one of the principal streets in this city Monday. W. J. Immel shot and killed his sweetheart, Kitty Askew, and then shot himself.

College Farmers in Session.

Minneapolis, July 14.—The eleventh annual convention of the association of American agricultural colleges and experiment stations was opened at the University of Minnesota Tuesday, President George T. Fairchild of Kansas presiding.

Another Cuban Leader Dead.

Havana, July 14.—Official advices from Pinar del Rio announce that the insurgent leader, Pancho Riveria, has been killed and that Pablo Oliva, another leader, has surrendered to the authorities with sixteen of his followers.

H. MERRILL SPEAKS ABOUT THE LIGHTS

WRITES AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PEOPLE.

Denies Some of the Statements Made Concerning the New Gas Company, and Says That Recent Events Confirm the Facts Given By Him Three Years Ago.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—I see by the newspapers, that Mayor Thorngood, at a meeting of the council Monday evening, made the remark, as the official head of the city, that "no one was kicking (about the letting of the contract for street lights) except the gas company." As this was an official utterance, I desire to say a few words concerning it. The mayor, and possibly others, seemed to have misconstrued our communication to the council at that meeting to be a complaint.

In the first place, the gas company is not complaining. For thirty-one years I have resided in the city of Janesville. During that time I have reduced the price of gas rapidly, and the reduction has been much larger than has been made in other cities.
The gas company has been furnishing Welsbach lights for street use, to the city of Janesville, as an advertisement, at a price so low that there has been no profit in them. In following out the regular policy of the gas company, a price much lower than is paid by any other city in the United States, was made in our bid. Other cities pay from $25 to $33 per year for the same lights that were offered to the city of Janesville for $24. The forty-two lights formerly in use on the streets, and about which Mayor Thor-ngood seems to think we are kicking, were scattered all over town. A man with a horse and buggy had to be hired to look after them, and the price was so low that the gas company made no profit on them under the circumstances.

The gas company is not complaining because the contract was not awarded to them, but the gas company is complaining about the treatment accorded the bidders by the mayor and common council.
In this respect I also wish to say a few words, and I think my thirty-one years residence here has demonstrated to the people whether or not I am, and have been, sincere in what I say and do. I believe that the following statements had much to do with the awarding of the contract,
and I therefore refer to them:

The statement that the New Gas
Light company sends $70,000, received for gas, per year, out of the city each year, is false. Our total receipts, for gas, are about $32,000 per year. The New Gas Light company has spent about $11,000 a year, each year, for labor since the new management took hold, and the people can judge for themselves whether or not the company has been liberal with its patrons.

The statement that the New Gas
company is trying to "kill competition" is false. The gas company wants honest competition as the Welsbach lights can hold their own with any known lighting appliance. Perhaps in the near future, electric lights may be so improved that they will force the gas company out of business. If they do, well and good. We cannot expect scientists to stop the development of modern machinery and appliances for our benefit. When we cannot compete with our opposition, we will not complain, but will take our medicine without asking for help.

The statement that the New Gas
Light company is trying to "ruin"
anyone is false. The New Gas Light company is not composed of bandits or highwaymen.

The statement that the New Gas
Light company is in league with the Janesville Light and Power company is false. The gas company knows nothing about that corporation or its representative in any way, shape or manner, and has no connection with it, either directly, indirectly or otherwise.

The statement that the Gas Company influenced, countenanced, or allowed any person to seek public office
in its behalf or interest, is false.

As the president of the Gas Company and a stockholder in the company, I desire to contradict these statements,
and pronounce them to be absolutely without foundation.

Just why the council—which at the

That Common Trouble, Acid Dyspepsia or Sour Stomach.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to properly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic and being an every day occurrence is given but little attention.
Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal
many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia
and stomach troubles. It is known as Sturart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.
It is prepared by the Stuart Chemical Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion,
at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach,
but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

same meeting voted against sewerage
on alleged "economical" grounds—
should deem it economy to pay $65 per year for arc lights when they were offered for $60 per year is not clear to me.

The new firm offered to give bonds
to furnish 1,200 candle power lights at $60 per year.

The contractor, however, does not give bonds to furnish 1,200 candle power lights, even at $65 per year.

The new firm offered to put certain wires underground, but the contractor is not required to do so.

Why was this favoritism? Why, if the council was acting in the interest of the people, was the contractor allowed to accept any of the terms offered in a bid by a competitor, and not required to accept A.L.L. that were favorable to the people?

Why, when price cutting was allowed under the guise of "rejecting all bids," was the contractor allowed to meet the price of a firm that had underbid him, but not compelled to meet all reductions offered by this competitor?

Can the council consistently talk
of economy after having voted to pay $750 more per year for 156 arc lights.
More must be put on, each one costing $5 more than would appear necessary for arcs, and $41 more than the one Welsbach that each arc will displace.
This, too, after disregarding the offer
of the gas company to save the city several thousand dollars per year, and give bonds of $5,000 or $10,000 to light the city better than it is now, or ever was lighted.

In my judgment, the interests of the people have not been best subserved in the matter. It looks very much to me as if the council had been determined to shut out all the bidders
—or "kill competition," to use a popular phrase—and did so regardless.

Scores of people, many of them
heavy tax payers, condemn the action of the council, and say "something should be done about it."

The gas company is not kicking, but the taxpayers are, and the mayor, who has made such a handy word of "economy" and the aldermen who have pursued a penny wise and pound foolish policy, will find it out when the wool is removed from their eyes.

The Recorder of this morning very truthfully says:

"A great howl went up yesterday from those quarters of the city where the Welsbach burners have been in use. Their removal will certainly leave some localities dark as a pocket."

The Recorder also very truthfully
says:

"To light the city as many would like to see it lighted, would require double the amount of the present appropriation. Take, for instance, North River street. There is no light between Milwaukee street and the railroad bridge, and it is hardly safe to go up there on foot or with a vehicle after dark. This is but one of the many similar places in the city where electric lights
would prove very acceptable."

This is true. I said in my statement three years ago, that 100 arc lights
would not light one side of the river.
I leave it to the judgment of the people whether or not I told the truth.
Now I will add further that $25,000 per year, spent for arc lights, will not light the city FOR THE PEOPLE OF JANESVILLE, as well as $12,000 worth of Welsbach lights. The arc lights may impress PEOPLE WHO GO THROUGH ON TRAINS, but the Welsbach lights will give service to
THE PEOPLE WHO LIVE HERE.

The Recorder says the removal of the Welsbach lights will leave portions of the city "as dark as a pocket." If the city will expend $12,000 per year
for Welsbach lights, we will ILLUMI-NATE the city from one end to the other.

Three hundred Welsbach lights, at an annual cost of $7,425, will light the city perfectly, and there will be NO
dark pockets, where, as the Recorder says, it will be "hardly safe to go either on foot or with a vehicle."

Yes, as the Recorder says, the removal of the Welsbach lights WILL leave some portions of the city as dark as a pocket—while the city goes on paying $12,000 per year for lights as against $7,500 for oil gas and arcs per year a few years ago.

Are lights light the city IN SPOTS.

Welsbach lights will light the city
ALL OVER, and that too, at a saving of several thousand dollars a year. I still insist that the gas company can give the city the best service for the least money. Present events corroborate my statements of three years ago. I said then that "the limit had been taken from the lighting fund"
and that the putting on of "49 more arc lights (as was proposed, and afterward done) was but an entering wedge." I told the truth, as the people can now see. In disregarding the bid of the gas company, the aldermen disregarded the best interests of the people, and in throwing out the lowest bid for arc lights, they also erred.

SOLDIERS ARE READY FOR WEEK IN CAMP

SUMMER SCHOOL WILL OPEN
ON AUG. 1.

Grounds At Camp Douglas Are Greatly Improved By a New Ordinance Depot and Drill Ground—Vacation As Well As Tour of Duty For the Militiamen.

The First regiment of the Wisconsin
National Guard, of which the Light Infantry form a company, will go into camp at Camp Douglas on August
1. The men are already making preparations for their annual tour of duty
and are putting in some hard drill work to perfect themselves for the annual review. They will leave home on Sunday morning and return on Saturday evening.

This year the National Guard of the state will go into camp with much better accommodations at the military reservation than have been enjoyed since its establishment. A permanent building has been erected at Camp Douglas as the ordinance and quartermaster's depot, and the rifle range has been much improved. The enrollment of the four regiments comprising the state troops is approximately: First regiment, 481; Second, 777; Third, 759; Fourth 474. Troop A, First Cavalry, numbers 45 men, and the First regiment, light artillery, has 65
men. It is expected that about 95 per cent. of the men will be in camp during the season.

New Ordinance Depot.

In building a permanent ordinance
depot at the camp an important change has been made in the handling of the equipment and supplies of the National Guard. It has been the custom to handle all camp supplies from Madison and the department has been cramped for room in the state capitol.
Hereafter the supply department will be maintained at the camp. All the quartermaster's stores and arms and ammunition have already been sent to this depot.

This new building is of brick, 136 feet long and 66 feet wide, and one story high. It has three office rooms and two large storerooms. The structure is built so that another story can be easily added if more room is needed. Another improvement which the boys will undoubtedly appreciate is a branch track from the railroad station at the town of Camp Douglas to the reserve. This will permit trains carrying troops and supplies to run direct to the camp and do away with the tiresome march from the depot to the camp proper.

Other Improvements.

At the skirmish range a stone wall has been built for the protection of the markers in the pits, and this leaves but little chance for accidents. The fire protection has been improved by the laying of additional mains, and the telephone service has been extended. A tract of eighty acres, which was rather swampy, has been drained and graded to make a new drill ground, but this may not be used this season, as it is still soft.

Twelve hundred new rifles have been received from the federal government, and will be proportioned among the companies while they are in camp.
Friday of each week will be reviewing day.

Vacation For the Boys

All expenses of the week's camping
are defrayed by the state and the men are allowed $2 per day for subsistence.
These facts make it possible for a majority of the men to get an outing that they could not otherwise possibly afford, and they willingly put in months of hard work for this week of outdoor work which they so much enjoy. In many cases, however, the necessary vacation is refused by employers and in others it is grudgingly given.

A friend of the guard in speaking about this feeling, said: "The public does not seem to realize the importance of a well drilled National Guard.
Instead of grudgingly yielding the time necessary to secure that drill employers should gladly grant all requests for leave of absence during the campaign month. It is only one week in the year they ask, and they surely should not refuse their faithful employees this limited vacation, especially when the opportunity is offered to have their expenses paid. There is more work than amusement in the camp drill, and the boys' should be encouraged in their self sacrificing devotion to their military duty."

BREHM'S Thier Leben, the great German scientific authority, says:
"Albino or white elephants very rare;
light colored specimens are rarely seen. In Siam, where Albinos of all kinds of animals are much esteemed,
as they are believed to be the rulers
of their kind; where the white elephant is held sacred as the most powerful of all animals, and where the one title of the king is 'Lord of the White Elephant'—it appears that the people have been able to obtain but few light colored specimens, notwithstanding all possible efforts have been made." As a matter of fact there are only five in all Siam, and one of these
the most famous, Ringling Brothers have secured, after months of negotiation and the expenditure of a fortune.
The Scientific American, an undoubted authority, declares that this beautiful white elephant, known as Keddah, is the only genuine specimen ever brought to America. Circus day is next Friday.

THE OVERFLOW OF LOCAL NEWS.

THE HOT WEATHER AND CROPS

Growth Has Been Very Rapid During the Past Few Days.

The weather conditions during the past week have been marked by excessively high temperatures, especially on the 8th and 9th, when temperatures of from 90 to 105 degrees were reported from the middle and southern sections of the state and from 85 to 95 degrees in the northern section. At Milwaukee on Friday the temperature reached 95 degrees, followed by cooler weather and a moderately heavy thunder storm on Saturday afternoon and night. Rain was reported generally from the middle and northern sections on Friday and Saturday but rain is still needed in some portions of the southern section. The warm weather accompanied generally by a sufficiency of moisture, has forced crops and especially corn, ahead to a remarkable degree, and while generally behind the condition they were in at this time last year, a continuation of the favorable growing weather will assist them in overcoming the retardation in growth caused by the cold weather and unfavorable conditions at the beginning of the season. A number of correspondents report that owing to lack of cultivation cornfields are very weedy, but the general tone of the reports would indicate that the crop is a good one and much better than was expected earlier in the season. Oats and spring wheat are beginning to head and promise a good crop. Potatoes are making rapid growth and promise an average crop, although there is considerable complaint of bugs. Barley is heading and cutting will begin generally in about ten days in the middle and southern sections of the state, and a few correspondents report cutting already under way. This crop has made good progress and with a continuation of the good weather will to a great extent overcome the injurious effect of the frost of the first of June, and now promises a good yield. Haying is making good progress and much of the crop is put away. Rye will soon be ready for harvest and promises fairly well. Tobacco all set and making good progress. Berries and small fruits are in excellent condition and are ripening fast.

THIS IS A GOOD YEAR FOR BEES

Best Season For Some Time Past, One Raiser Says.

One of Rock county's leading bee keepers says that the season this year is the most favorable for the last five years. The swarming time has nearly doubled the number of colonies, and where properly attended to has left them in good, vigorous condition. The main dependence of this season for fine honey, white clover, which has been burnt out by the drought for a number of seasons, has been very thrifty this year. That which has been in blossom of late is chiefly from a catch of last fall which got a good rooting during the fall rains and came through the winter in good order. The bees have put in their time to good advantage, not losing as much time as usual by long flights. Some of the colonies have just had their fourth case put in, the cases being of 32 sections each. The last case may not fill, but there is a fair chance that it will, showing a very prolific honey season. The sweet clover along the roadside is very abundant this year. Much of it is being cut down, but a second growth comes to take its place, furnishing honey during a time when everything else of that nature is suspended. The white clover honey is of a beautiful quality this season and is already on the market. The attractive white sections retail at about the price of a box of berries.

One man carried nineteen swarms through the winter, and consolidated them to 16 to get stronger colonies. These have now grown to 29. Bee men everywhere report their colonies as having come through the swarming season in splendid order, and producing a great crop. While bees are doing so very nicely however, the rest of the supply may not be so well off, this being a precarious crop, and general poor at one part of the land while it is good at another.

The Physiology of the Liver.

The liver is the largest secreting organ in the human body, and the bile which it secretes is more liable to vitiation and misdirection from its proper channels than any other of the fluids. Luckily for the bilious, however, there is an unending source of relief from liver complaint, namely Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which for about half of a century has been achieving through cures of the above mentioned ailments, fever and ague, dyspepsia, bowel complaints, rheumatic and kidney affection, and disorders involving loss of nervous vigor. It is, moreover, a preventive of malarial disease, and affords protection to thousands of persons residing in districts of country where that dire scourge is prevalent. As a remedy adapted to the medicinal requirements of all families, it is supremely desirable, and as a means of fortifying a debilitated system, it is thoroughly to be depended upon.

Between Seed Time and Harvest

Is a good opportunity to enquire about farming lands in South Dakota, only one day's ride from Chicago. Bountiful crops of wheat, corn, barley and flax reward the tiller of the soil. As a stock and dairy country South Dakota leads all the world. First class farm lands with nearby markets can now be bought for from $10, $12, $15, and upwards, per acre, and this is the time to invest. For further particulars write to George H. Hesford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, Old Colony Building, Chicago, Ill.

DON'T FIRE AT THE EDGE

You Have Paid for the Bullet, Make It Hit the Target.

If a man wants to hit a target with a bullet he does not start firing round in a general sort of way in the hope that one bullet will hit something. He takes definite aim at the bull's eye, and does his best to hit it. It is the same with advertising. You do not want to go firing round at anybody and everybody in an ad, but you do want to aim at something and somebody in particular. Some years ago there was a famous trial of a farmer for shooting a noise in the orchard and fired off his gun into the darkness and had the misfortune to kill a boy. It was proved at the trial that he had not aimed at the victim, and in fact had not seen him, but that he had fired quite at random.

The judge summed up in these words: "The prisoner fired at nothing and missed it."

We suppose, sometimes, these good people who fire at nothing in their advertising do occasionally miss nothing, and hit somebody and get some business, but we do not think their method is to be commended.—Printers Ink.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage, will cost at least $65, whether the circular is good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two on the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings greater returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured. Gazette Job Rooms.

When You Get Ready.

When you have consulted everybody else and have been treated for every known and unknown disease; when you have filled your system with one-pattern, ready-made, same-for-all, sure-cure preparations; when you have tried charms, spells, fakes, fads and fancies; if experience has taught you that Nature alone possesses the power to heal; that certain remedies assist Nature, but none of them cure; that it is better to work with Nature than to fight the disease; that the surest way to cure disease is to remove the cause of that disease, then we will gladly assist you with Rational remedies and methods which tend to build up and strengthen the entire system. Nature can assert herself and the Cause of disease is removed.

We treat the Patient, not the disease. This is one reason why we succeed where others have failed.

We have been in Janesville more than ten months and are here to stay. Consultation, opinion and advice free.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

- 1223—Philip Augustus, king of France and companion of Richard Cœur de Lion in the crusades, died.
1602—Cardinal Mazarin, French statesman, born; died 1661.
1780—The populace of Paris stormed and captured the Bastille. The Bastille was the state prison and citadel of Paris. It contained 50 dungeons for state prisoners. The treatment of these victims was barbarous in the extreme. They were arrested without warrant, denied communication with the outside world and their fate depended upon the monarch's caprice. Many noted people were confined there, among them Richelieu, Voltaire, Lafayette, and the Marquis de Sade. The Bastille was overthrown by the mob and the dungeons, liberating one man who had been in a cell 30 years.
1818—Nathaniel Lyon, soldier, born in Ashford, Conn.; killed at Wilson's Creek, Mo., 1861.
1828—Jervis McEntee, American landscape artist, born at Rondout, N. Y.; died there 1891.
1853—The Crystal Palace exhibition opened in New York city.
1894—Jules Emil Sarutrin, noted painter, died in Paris; born 1829.
1896—Mgr. Monico la Valletta, senior cardinal bishop of the Roman hierarchy, died at Rome; born 1827.

A NEW DIVERSION.

Quotation Parties Furnish No End of Amusement.

A quotation party is an entertaining diversion, as it is not too intellectual, and at the same time proves a fairly good test of one's memory. Each guest is supplied with a card bearing a number of familiar quotations, which, however, are either left unfinished at the end or are not written out at the beginning—for example, the beginning of the well known line about a young man's fancy turning to thoughts of love is supplied by the guessers, or the end of that other familiar line, "Man's love is of man's life a part," is left to the memory. A prize is, of course, the reward of the fortunate contestant, and the game is really helpful and improving, as well as interesting.

Or that other familiar entertainment known as the art collection affords much amusement. Each guest is furnished with a catalogue bearing numbered titles of well known books or pictures, while about the room are scattered objects suggestive of the above. For instance, a few tacks scattered on some loose tea leaves are interpreted into the "Cause of the American Revolution;" a brass key into "Something to Adore;" an olive and a spool of twist into "Oliver Twist;" a coffee-mill on a skein of floss, "Mill on the Floss," and so on, according to the tact and ingenuity of the hostess. Poster tableaux are also most amusing, and as this form of entertainment is an up-to-date one, they are sure to be popular. A large wooden frame is improvised, and within it various highly colored posters are represented, such as magazine, bicycle or soap advertisements.

Mr. Clemens' Present to His Wife.

It must have been because the author of the "Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc" was on his travels in the uttermost parts of the earth when the narrative was published in book form that one of his intentions about it was not at that time carried out. It was his purpose, when he began work on the story in Florence in 1893, that it should be a silver wedding present to his wife. He says that she never knew of his design, and when the book was published there was nothing in it to apprise her of it. "Let us rectify," writes Mr. Clemens from London, under date of April 9, and, agreeable to his wish, a leaf will be inserted into future issues of the "Recollections of Joan," bearing this inscription:

1870 TO MY WIFE 1895
OLIVIA LANGDON CLEMENS
THIS BOOK

Is tendered on our wedding anniversary in grateful recognition of her twenty-five years of valued service as my literary adviser and editor.

THE AUTHOR.
—Harper's Weekly.

Soldiers for the British Army.

A correspondent of the London Saturday Review says that there are thousands of able-bodied British subjects in the United States who are out of work and destitute, and he thinks that many of them would be glad to enlist in the British army if the British government would pay their transportation home. He regards his suggestion as practical in view of the difficulty of getting recruits for the British service.

Thousands of Fishes Suffocated.

It has been estimated that 10,000 dead fishes were cast upon the shore of the lake at Loring park, Minneapolis, when the ice melted this year, the unusual thickness of the ice during the winter having caused the fishes to perish of suffocation.

Why He Went.

"Do you go to school, my little man?" asked the smiling visitor.
"Naw," drawled the hopeful; "I'm sent."—Yonkers Statesman.

HAT GARNITURE A LA MODE.

Satin straw gains rather than loses in popularity as the season advances. Ribbons of taffeta or moire taffeta are used in preference to those of satin. Dresden effects are still slightly used, but not nearly to the extent that they were.

There seems to be no end to the diversity of shapes in vogue, and almost anything your taste suggests would be in style, from a small toque to the large picture hat.

Hats having brims of one color and crowns of another are seen quite frequently. They are very becoming and, being so effective in themselves, require less trimming to make them look stylish.

A few very young women, with piquant faces, are affecting the old-fashioned poke bonnet of the early days of Queen Victoria's reign, but it is only becoming in their style, so will not be universally adopted.

Flowers were never used in such profusion and variety, scarlet geranium being considered very new and stylish. Certainly, they make a very summery-looking garniture, and the ones seen this year are especially pretty and of fine manufacture.

Clusters of fruit seem to have taken a new lease on life for trimming hats, and some of the swellest toques and short-backed sailors are seen trimmed with cherries, currants, grapes, gooseberries, blackberries and mulberries, which look good enough to eat.

Two of the most popular kinds are of Java and Panama straw (either in walking hat shape, with rolling brim and creased crown, or high-crowned sailor) trimmed with a plain band of ribbon and stiff quills. These are most worn with tailor-made gowns for shopping, and are the regulation outing hat of the season.

The sailor hat, with plain, narrow band, most affected by the smart set, has a high crown with rather narrow brim, and is almost invariably the natural straw color, with dark blue, black or Tartan plaid band; these last being particularly novel and stylish. An innovation this year is the selling of adjustable bands at 50 cents each, so that one can have several bands for one hat.

Green and bright scarlet vie with each other to be considered the color for hats this summer. The green ones are trimmed with yellow, violet, blue and pink in combinations that a few years ago would have been thought exceedingly inartistic, but which are in keeping with fashion's mandates. As one grows more accustomed to them they are not really so startling as they first appear.

SALT AND ITS PROPERTIES.

Used in washing the hair it will prevent the hair from falling out.

Added to a bucket of water it forms a remarkably effective fire extinguisher.

A handful of rock salt added to the bath is the next best thing to an ocean dip.

A teaspoonful of salt in a lamp will make kerosene oil give a brighter light.

As a dentifrice salt and water will not only cleanse, but whiten the teeth, and will harden the gums.

New calicoes soaked in a strong solution of salt for an hour before washing will retain their colors better.

Damp salt will remove the discoloration of tea and the like in dishes that have been carelessly washed.

When broiling steak a pinch or two of salt thrown on the fire will quench the flames arising from the dripping fat.

A weak solution is good for sore throat, to be used as a gargle, and this is still better if a few grains of red pepper are added.

Ink stains may be removed by the use of moistened salt. When it becomes discolored remove it and use a fresh supply until no color remains.

Dissolved in water and snuffed up the nostrils it is of use in curing catarrh, but when chronic its use must be persisted in night and morning for several months.

A little salt in raw or boiled starch will prevent the irons from sticking, and make the starch whiter. If the irons are rough lay some salt on a piece of brown paper, lay a piece of muslin over it, and rub the irons on it until they are bright and smooth.

A bag of salt, heated and applied over a painful spot is often very efficacious in allaying pain, especially those of a colicky nature, in the stomach and bowels, says a writer in the Boston Traveler. A weak solution of salt in water is a good remedy for slight indigestion, especially that characterized by a sense of weight and oppression.

WOMEN OF NOTE.

New York boasts a woman optician, Mrs. Beckwith, who carries on a large business at Maiden Lane.

Miss Braddon is 60 and Mrs. Oliphant 68, but they carry a pair of lovers through a long novel with as much skill as ever.

Miss Edna Cooke, daughter of Gov. Cooke of Connecticut, was the only graduate from Beacon School, Hartford, this year.

Miss Winifred Warren, daughter of President Warren of Boston University, has been elected to the chair of Latin at Vassar College. She is now in Europe pursuing her studies.

There are in London 593 common lodging houses. They contain 25,274 beds.

Experience Enough.

"I might give you a place as floor-walker," said the merchant to the applicant for a situation, "if you had only any experience."

"Well, sir," replied the seeker after work, "I am the father of ten children, including three sets of twins."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Where the Trouble Was.

"I don't get as good food now as when I was single," sighed Mr. Bowersox.
"When you are able to hire as good a cook as your father hired you will have no fault to find with your food," replied Mrs. Bowersox, in a decisive tone.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Angel.

She knows the secret of her worth—
Of that there's no denying—
So, though she has no wings herself,
She keeps the money flying.
—N. Y. Truth.

RECKLESS EXTRAVAGANCE.

Kind Party—If I give you this nickel, what will you do with it?
Tatters (sarcastically)—I'll be honest, wid you, boss. I'll spend it in riotous living.—N. Y. Journal.

By the Seaside.

"What are the wild waves saying?"
Then a breeze brought back this sound:
"We can't get in a word edgewise,
With so many women around."
—Chicago Record.

Good at One of Them.

"I really can't help admiring Col. Bloward."
"What! That old freak!"
"Yes; he's either the best pistol shot or the most accomplished liar I ever met."—Chicago Journal.

Summer School Confidences.

"Carlyle says people are mostly fools."
"Emerson says we are responsible for the kind of acquaintances we attract."—Chicago Record.

Tough.

"What a tough face that young fellow has! Don't you think so?"
"Think so? I know it. I tried to break it once."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Historic.

"I hear Miss Evangate's new play is a historic one."
"Why not? She's getting somewhat historic herself."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Power of Photography.

During the heat of the political campaign last fall a well-known broker's wife chipped into a discussion at the table of a "swagger" New York boarding-house. The man, getting the worst of the argument, told her he didn't want to talk to her. She didn't like that and later in the evening her "hub" called the other man to his room and held him while the woman horse-whipped him till she got tired. He procured photographs demonstrating the effectiveness of her blows and she has just been fined $50.

Enriching the Language.

"Paw," asked the little boy, "what does it mean when a man is 'frowned down'?"
"It—er—means to discourage him."
"Then would they encourage him by smiling him up?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Conceded.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—"I don't believe a man ever stole anything but he lived to regret it." Mrs. Crimsonbeak—"You stole my heart, once, John."
"Yes."—Yonkers Statesman.

A Keen Observer.

"A medical journal says there are from 40,000 to 80,000 germs in an ordinary oyster."
"Singular! That's from 40,000 to 80,000 more than there are in a church fair oyster stew."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Nothing in It.

He—I dreamed I had $50 in my pocket.
She—Well?
"I woke up, and there was nothing in it."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Natural Question.

"What is your profession?"
"I write—poems, novels, romances, plays, etc."
"And what do you live on?"—Fliegende Blaetter.

Consideration.

He—What do you think of our new cook, dear?
She—She's just lovely; why, she doesn't even want the piano moved to her room.—Up-to-date.

FASHION'S dictum of stiff collars and cuffs on negligee shirts is coining money for laundry proprietors.

An Untimely Remark.

An aunt of Mrs. Chaffie is paying the family a visit. At the breakfast table she said to Johnnie, who was eying her closely:

"I believe, Johnnie, you are counting every biscuit I eat."
"No, I ain't trying. Pa says you eat so many there's no counting 'em," replied Johnnie, much to the annoyance of his parents, as the aunt is quite wealthy.—N. Y. World.

CIRCLE IN SESSION AT CONCORDIA HALL

PATRIARCHS GATHER IN THE BOWER CITY.

Attendance Is Not Large Only About Fifty Delegates Being Present—Real Business to Begin This Evening, When Address of Welcome Will Be Made—Tomorrow's Program

The supreme officers who are now in the city to attend the meeting of the Patriarchal Circle of America are: Supreme Commander—F. C. Voltz, Milwaukee.

Supreme Oracle—S. B. Kenyon, Janesville, Wis.

Supreme Secretary—G. C. Ridings, Morris, Ill.

Past Supreme Oracle—Peter Van Vechten, Milwaukee.

Past Supreme Oracle—C. H. Carpenter, Elkhart, Ind.

Supreme Standard Bearer—H. H. Speck, Milwaukee, Wis.

Supreme Guard—A. J. Smith, Waukesha, Wis.

Supreme Second Aid—W. F. Sanders, Milwaukee, Wis.

Supreme Steward—J. A. Fathers, Janesville, Wis.

Supreme Commander's Staff

Adjutant General—G. C. Ridings, Morris, Ill.

Surgeon General—Dr. W. H. Rowe, Waukesha, Wis.

Aid De Camps.

Colonel F. H. Koebelin, Janesville, Wis.

Among the fifty-eight deputy supreme officers are J. A. Fathers, J. W. Hodgdon, J. L. Davey and Mrs. Nellie Blakely, for Golden Bard, all of this city.

S. B. Kenyon is a member of the standing committee on legislation and printing, and J. L. Davey is a member of the committee on credentials.

Change Not Likely.

It had been said that in all probability this session of the Supreme Temple would be the last meeting of that body, as there were many indications that point to a dissolution of the order and its juncture with Odd Fellows.

The separation from the parent Odd Fellows lodge occurred about twelve years ago, and was the result of a disagreement as to revenue. Now, it was said, overtures had been made that would result in the termination of the order as a separate organization. This statement, however, does not seem to have been well grounded as Secretary Ridings knows of no such plan.

Few Delegates Present.

Fewer delegates are in attendance than were expected. It was thought that one hundred and fifty would be in attendance, but the number here is less than half that number. They all arrived this morning in time for the first session, which was held at Concordia hall at 10 o'clock. The address of welcome will be made by Mayor Thoroughgood this evening, and several of the supreme officers will respond, among them being Secretary Ridings and Past Supreme Oracle Van Vechten. At 10:30 o'clock the meeting opened for business, but adjourned soon afterward until 2 o'clock this afternoon. At that hour business was resumed.

After the business meeting this evening the feast degree will be conferred, the ladies of the Golden Band serving the banquet. Later, the knighthood ceremonies will occur, the session being open to all Patriarchs and their families.

The Exercises Tomorrow.

The Temple will meet again at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and continue in session until noon. At 1:30 o'clock a street parade will be held, terminating at the steamboat landing, where the patriarchs will take passage for the up river parks. A competitive drill will be held at the resort, followed by a dress parade and the awarding of prizes. Supper will then be served and the evening will be devoted to games and dancing. The session will end on Friday morning with the election and installation of new officers.

B. FAY MILLS CHANGES HEART

Christian Registrar Says He Is Now a Unitarian.

The following will be of interest to those who know B. Fay Mills. It is from the leading Unitarian organ of the east, the Christian Register of Boston (July 8), which claims him as a convert: "The open air meeting on the Charles Street Mall last Sunday, at five o'clock, was made especially interesting by the presence of B. Fay Mills, who closed the meeting with a vigorous address. At the end of the exercises a large number crowded around Mr. Mills, asking him various questions, springing from the remarks which he made. It is probably known to most of our readers that Mr. Mills has undergone a complete change of the theological views, so that he is now in full sympathy with the Unitarian faith."

BOWER CITY PEOPLE SLIGHT THE SCHOOL

FEW AT THE SUMMER REVIEW INSTITUTE.

No More Summer Sessions Will Be Held In The Town If Superintendent Mayne Has His Way, In Consequence—Part of the Program Is Abandoned.

The prospects for holding another summer institute and review school in Janesville are very slim if Professor D. D. Mayne has anything to do with its management. Lack of interest, by the citizens of Janesville, has put a damper on the idea of holding of any more institutes in this city.

At the High school building this morning every department was in running order, but where 100 students are now enrolled, there should be at least 250, the managers think. But a small percentage are from this city.

In the art department, with Miss Ella E. Garfield, who is considered one of the foremost instructors in this country, in charge, the Bower City is represented by but two students, which is anything but encouraging in a city where an art league flourishes.

At the Central school preparations had been made to accommodate over 200 pupils who wished to prepare themselves for promotion in the different grades at the opening of the fall term.

Part of Program Abandoned.

Teachers from the local schools were hired to take charge of the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, but as just four pupils made application for membership in the first and sixth grades it was deemed best to abandon this part of the program.

The seventh and eighth grades will hold daily sessions, there being just enough pupils to warrant it and that is all.

Supt. Mayne said that the citizens of Janesville have not shown the interest in the school that they should but the reason therefor is not plain to him.

"In as small a place as Fort Atkinson, a summer school this year, would have awakened the united interest of all of the citizens," he said this morning. "I have little doubt but what her citizens would have raised a goodly sum towards securing the school that is now in session in this city."

William Hawley Smith, the noted lecturer, arrived in the city this afternoon from Beloit where he has been visiting friends and J. W. Livingston, superintendent of schools at Sparta, was among today's arrivals.

Mr. Smith will lecture Thursday evening, and it is expected that the general public will turn out, the admittance being placed at the low fee of 25 cents. Mr. Smith once traveled with Bill Nye, and is an exceptionally successful entertainer.

DR. BELL IS MADE PRESIDENT

The Beloit Physician Heads the State Medical Board.

The State Board of Medical Examiners held its first meeting in the Executive office at Madison yesterday afternoon, all members being present.

The board met at 1:30 o'clock and affected temporary organization by the election of Dr. Samuel Bell, of Beloit as president and N. H. Ludwig, of Richland Center as secretary and treasurer.

After a short recess, the board reconvened and the members took the oath of office. On motion of Dr. C. E. Quigg of Tomah, the temporary organization was made permanent, though Dr. Bell was reluctant to accept the office of president. Dr. Bell is a member of the allopathic school, while Dr. Ludwig, the secretary and treasurer, is an eclectic physician.

The board was in session all the afternoon and evening. The Minnesota form of certificate was adopted. The board also adopted the form of application for examination and registration as now used by the Iowa state board. It was decided that all examinations be in the English language, and that the examination fee be $10 and the license fee $5.

Several features of the Medical law are not clear, and the attorney general is to be asked to pass upon them. One of these is whether the board has authority to demand a certificate of moral character of physicians who desire to move from some other state and to begin practice in Wisconsin.

SELL FAIR GROUNDS AT SHERIFF'S SALE

ACTION IS TO BE TAKEN IMMEDIATELY.

J. L. Bear and A. E. Rich Will Adopt That Course As Soon As Attorney Wheeler Returns From Madison—President Scott's Plan—Raise Garden Truck On Race Track.

Within the next six weeks the forty seven acres of ground in this city that have been controlled by the Rock County Agricultural society will be sold at sheriff's sale on an execution to be issued in favor of J. L. Bear and A. E. Rich.

This course will be taken as soon as Attorney W. G. Wheeler returns from Madison. Mr. Bear and Mr. Rich having decided that this method would be better in the end than if the grounds were placed in the hands of a receiver.

This action means that the regular annual pumpkin show will not be given, and it now looks as though the weeds would have full sway over one of the finest race tracks in the country.

President James Scott, who was visited yesterday by a committee at his farm in the town of LaPrairie, said that as long as the fair was to receive its death blow, he thought for one that it was no more than right that the majority of the stockholders should get together and make a deed of the property, the same to be turned over to Mr. Bear and Mr. Rich.

President Scott's Plan

This method, President Scott says, would save much unnecessary expense. Mr. Bear said this morning that to place the grounds in the hands of a receiver would mean a delay of several weeks or months before the matters were entirely settled, while to place it in the sheriff's hands would mean the disposal of the property within the next six weeks. The sale is to be advertised at once and the property sold to the highest bidder to satisfy claims that aggregate about $10,000.

"If the property comes into our hands," remarked Mr. Bear this morning, "I think about all we can do with it is to plant it with pop corn or raise garden truck until we can dispose of it in city lots."

Secretary George M. McKey said this morning that the way things looked now it was doubtful as to the giving of a fair this fall. "If it is necessary, we could advertise the fair in four weeks' time" remarked Mr. McKey, "but as the matter now stands, it remains for Mr. Bear and Mr. Rich to settle the question."

OTHER COTTON MILLS CLOSED

Local Plants Are Not the Only Ones That Are Idle.

The managers of the Janesville cotton mills can console themselves with the fact that there are not the only mills that are closed. Word reaches the city that the Iron Works cotton mills at Fall River, Mass., have closed down throwing 3,000 hands out of work whose weekly pay roll was $18,000. Other cotton mills in the Carolinas have closed giving for their reason that profit is lacking in the business with the present price of raw cotton and price of manufactured goods.

THE BOYS.

ED EVERETT HALE.

Mr. Lewis Jones joining the procession, to the basement of the signal tower of the railroad. Here they were locked in till two policemen could be brought from a station a mile away. The next day they were tried and sentenced to three years each in the house of correction.

So it was that the neighbors ceased to find fault with the boys' athletic exercise.

CHAPTER IV.

Will was not in the Sunday school. He liked to practice with the choir, for his voice had not yet changed, and Mr. Rudolph flattered him a little and told him that he liked to have him sing in the alto part. Now the choir met for practice in the half hour before service, when the Sunday school was still in the vestry. So Will had begged off from the Sunday school and sang with the choir.

As he went into church one day a little early he found three small boys hanging round on the steps. "What's up?" said Will. One of them looked cross, one looked sheepish, and the third only said, "Teacher's mad and turned us out—ziff I wanted to stay in!" And he pretended to laugh at such an absurdity. Will took no notice, but went up into the choir gallery and did his best in Rise, crowned with light, imperial Salem, rise! But before the rehearsal was over he excused himself, went down stairs and after a little found the three banished boys in the graveyard spelling out the letters on an old Campenoon's tomb. "Silas," said Will, "did not you say you wanted to learn how to print?" "Yes," said Silas eagerly. "Will you show me?" "That's what I've come for," said Will. "I have got a large job for this week, and if you will come round at teatime and eat some crackers on the way, so we need not stop for tea, you shall help me." And then, turning easily to the other two boys, he said, "And you can come, too, if you like."

Now, each of these three boys had a sort of curish idea that he really wanted their imbecile help in his printing. In fact, all the time Will had been singing "Rise, crowned with light," and "A charge to keep I have" he had been thinking that these three boys were going to the dogs as fast as they could go, and he was wondering what he could do to save them. To the three little outlaws it was a great compliment to be invited anywhere by the captain of the boys' football team, and they were glad on hand on Monday evening. They made a hard evening of it for Will, but he had not expected an easy one. His work with his types advanced very little, but he got a hold on the three boys he never lost. Wednesday afternoon he took them trout fishing with him. Friday he spent the evening with them skinning a mink which John Brettons had trapped and had given to one of them, and when he proposed to them to come round and practice singing at his father's the next Sunday morning they assented, precisely as they would have done had he proposed to them to go in a water with him on Saturday afternoon.

"Yes," he said to his mother, "I do not like to give up the choir practice, but if I do not sacrifice something there is no good. Some time I will have them in the choir."

Sure enough, before long the three outcasts from the Sunday school were the three best behaved boys in Mr. Rudolph's choir, and, for the pieces they had had a chance to have, three of his best soprano singers, and when in the spring there was a reorganization of the Sunday school and the sessions were put at the end of the service, when Will was appointed assistant librarian, he made Nathan Clarke, one of the black trio, his first runner, and Miss Donnegan was glad to take the other two into her class without asking why they had been expelled from Miss Davis'.

All this had to be told, because it accounts for a certain devotion which Silas and Will ever afterward, indeed the devotion which Will had for Robinson Crusoe.

CHAPTER V.

It was dimly understood that Will Mallory was to go to school in the spring term came. "Ten weeks in spring," his father said. "What is that?" "That is you to go to school for ten weeks. You are no better than they are, if you are no worse," he said fondly and only—fondly, for he and Will were ill.

So Will appeared at school one day with those books which had been carried away after his father's accident.

The teacher hardly knew what to do. He had to take Will. The constitution of the United States provided for that. But where to put him? He was an inch or two taller than the boys he had been classed with before, yet he had never "analyzed" a line of Milton and had no idea where Cape Bryan-Martin was. Still, it would be ridiculous to put such a big fellow in with the little boys who were yet to learn about Cape Bryan-Martin. Why, he was too big for their desks and chairs! So Will was put with the Bryan-Martin boys, was charged to study extra and make up certain implied "conditions," and their leaders, on the other hand, were charged in private not to make fun of his ignorance, because it was not his fault that he was behind. Much did the teacher know about the business. There was no danger that any boy in that class would make fun of Will Mallory.

And to Will the whole thing came with a new zest, which he had forgotten. He found that he listened to the teacher's explanations, which used to seem such a bore. He brought to the matter a certain businesslike interest which surprised the other boys, but he very soon made them fall in with him, as a popular boy, a leader to all.

Will's father went to the legislature that winter, and this meant for Will no daily companion. But he had many irons in the fire, and he did not mean to let them cool. His mother was persuadable, and she agreed that while he kept "out of mischief" he need not go to school. This was his joke, for the boy had quite too much that was of use on his hands to have any time for mere skylarking or tomfoolery.

What Will did was to go to see the publisher of The Argus. He made a bargain with him to come at 6 o'clock every evening and set type till 10, when, except on ordinary occasions, The Argus went to press, and Will would make the bargain till the foreman agreed that Silas Targot might come at 6 and stay till 8, that Will should correct his proof for him and that the boy should be paid for what he did. This was the kingdom of heaven for the boy, and Will kept him to his other duties by threatening to take him away if he failed. Few men in the office could set type faster than Will. He promised his mother that while this engagement lasted he would sleep an hour every afternoon, and so it proved that when Will's father came home "for good" in June Will had $150 in bank as the upshot of his winter's typesetting.

CHAPTER VI.

And so the little story may be brought to an end, for a story should end and should begin like the frieze of a Greek temple, where at one end you see the head of a horse and at the other end see the tail of another, but where you know nothing of the bodies of these two horses. This little Silas could and would do anything which Will Mallory bade him do, and it ended oddly enough after two years in Will's taking him with him when he went to college at Cambridge, for the little boy delighted in his singing. He still had that clear soprano voice, and he had a tenderness and sympathy which compelled him to sing with the spirit. Will had laid up $300 by his printing and was to enter as a special student at Harvard. Little Silas "took on so," as his mother said, at the idea of parting that she recollected that she had a cousin in Cambridge and, with Will's full approval, sent the little fellow down to spend the winter with her, that he need not be a mile away from his best friend.

The society of an academy or college town is always simple—that is to say, the best people find each other out and come together. Will Mallory was popular with the "fellows" because he was good natured, obliging and simple, partly because he was not afraid in football, and though he did not pretend to be much of a baseball man, could take his place as a substitute. With the older people in the college he was a favorite for the same reasons. He "confessed ignorance" when he was ignorant; he listened well; he bore a hand when he was asked to; he would sing if Mrs. Bentley asked him to sing; he would play tennis if anybody failed to appear; he did not insist always on having his own way. His two years, and Silas' as well, passed only too quickly.

Then, by what we call an accident, they came to an end before he had really finished the course he had planned.

Silas was reading one of Mr. Stevenson's stories one evening when Commodore Stetson called. Commodore Stetson had invented a new arrangement for an electric signal on board ship, and he had come to consult Mr. Marrer, Silas' uncle, about the details, for Mr. Marrer was an electrician. As always, Silas paid much more attention to what other people were saying than to his own business. So he heard the commodore say that he wanted the new "call" finished, if possible, within a month, for that he had been ordered to the East Indian station and that they should all sail before the 10th of July. Silas could not help thinking how nice it would be to go with him, to have a chance at breadfruit and ouagras and lobsters, guava and other luxuries of "Swiss Family Robinson," but he said nothing. Will had made him understand that he must hold his tongue; that "the dumb man's orders still increase."

Even when the commodore went on to say, "I am going to see Mr. Bolles, the secretary, to see whom he can give me for an amanuensis or private clerk," Silas bit his tongue and said nothing. "You see," said this nice, hearty sailor, "I want a young fellow with his eyes open, who has a smack at language, who can write a better hand than I and make a better sketch than I, and a gen-

"Yes," said Silas. "Will you show me?" "I mean he must be, too, who can keep secrets and keep out of quarrels with the midshipmen and the ship's officers." Even then Silas, in agony with biting his tongue, said nothing.

But as soon as the commodore had gone, when Mr. Marrer came back from the door, Silas cried with all his pent up eagerness, "Why cannot Will Mallory go with him?" And his uncle said: "He is just the right person. Why did I never think of him? But it is not too late, Silas." And he sat down and wrote a note to Commodore Stetson and even put on a special delivery stamp to please Silas, and Silas took it to the postoffice.

And they all sailed together. The last I heard of them they were lowering a boat at the opening of Falcon bay, on

Mr. Swiss Family's island. The longitude is 185 degrees west and the latitude 7 degrees north. When they come home, I will tell you more.

Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.

To the Young Face

Pozzoni's COMPLEXION POWDER gives fresher charms; to the old, renewed youth. Try it.

Opp. Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

MRS. ANNIB BESANT.

She Has a Noble and Impressive Personality.

This peculiarly gifted woman is in her 50th year. Her hair is now rather silvery than dark; and what may be called the spiritual expression of her face has become intensified to a degree strikingly suggestive of a life in which contemplation predominates over action, says Leslie's Weekly. The old-time persuasiveness of speech, far from having waned, is in more subtle force than ever. The limpid clearness of thought and scientific precision of phrase, combined with sympathetic spontaneity, which count for so much in the charm of her discourse, are especially in evidence now that the material side of occultism, so to speak, is the subject of popular exposition. Order, system and self-control are the mainsprings of her power over others. From her precept and example proceeds an impression of the serene force of the inevitable. Most portraits of Mrs. Besant fail to suggest either the meditative grace of her features in repose or the winning animation of her smile. Her dress is picturesquely simple, consisting of soft white silk, with the chador, or shawl, thrown over one shoulder, after the fashion of the Indian woman. On the third finger of the left hand she wears the famous signet ring of Mme. Blavatsky—an oriental onyx, engraved with the symbolical device of the double triangle and the Sanskrit word Sat, signifying the divine existence. Altogether the English teacher presents a noble and impressive personality, with something of the outward semblance of what one might look for in a living champion of the ideal amid a sensual and material age.

A LITTLE BRIEF AUTHORITY.

Ike Was Appointed Deputy Sheriff Without Delay.

"Few men can look back over their lives without wondering how they survived the tight places through which they passed. I have probably been through more dangers than the average man," and the man who made his pile in Arizona, coming back to Detroit that he might enjoy it, seemed to be making a selection from his many thrilling experiences, says the Detroit Free Press. "They made me sheriff down there, and I had one gang to deal with that had no trouble in keeping me worried all the time. They were the very worst type of border ruffians and thought no more of human life than I did of wiping out a coyote. One evening I had been scouting on my own responsibility, a tip having been given me that a little settlement in the lower part of the county was to be raided. Without the slightest warning I came upon three of the gang and had my hands extended skyward in a jiffy. It was the boast of the gang that they would put me out of the way, and it looked black. But a man thinks fast when his time seems short. 'Ike,' I shouted, as if commanding a regiment, 'I appoint you a deputy sheriff. We'll wipe off the slate for you and you can hold the job as long as want to. Nail that fellow next to you.' A little brief authority just caught the fellow. He took the drop on his man. The diversion gave me a chance at the other fellow and it was a regular triumphal procession we made to the county jail. Ike made as good an officer as ever operated in that rough country and, inside of three months we had the gang cleaned out."

New Wrinkles in Letter Writing.

Good form of writing notes or letters has been changed considerably. You must no longer have a margin at either side of your page, nor divide what you have to say into paragraphs, but write it continuously. You mustn't write on each side of the sheet one after the other, just as they come. Use the front page, first, then turn it over and fill up the back; if you still have something left to say attack the other side of the front page, writing crosswise from top to bottom and so on down, filling both the inside pages. This, according to an eminent authority, is "considered to be the nicest way among the nicest people." That settles it. Neither must you date your letter at the upper left hand corner any more. Put it at the lower left hand corner at the end of the letter. Write it all out. The economy of time and space implied by the use of figures is offensive to good society. In an informal note, however, you will be permitted to express the year in figures, but the day of the month, never.

A Gentle Hint.

Naow, kerry-seen an' 'coal costs money, an' Mary ain't much good fer housework w'en she's been up all night; besides, I need a hand tew help with th' wood-cuttin' powful bad. After the Ball.

From the Boston Journal: After all the regular newspaper correspondents have done more for the reading world than the literary artists whose stories of battles are just coming to us. People prefer to know what is going on while the war lasts. Post-bellum correspondents have to make up with color or what their description lack in freshness.

Not According to Rule.

From the Washington Post: The other airship inventors don't seem to think much of that Nashville affair. It violated the code of airship ethics by actually flying.

AARON BURR'S PISTOL.

Its Adventures Since It Gave a Fatal Wound to Alexander Hamilton.

Louis Marshall of Versailles, Ky., possesses the famous pistol with which Aaron Burr killed Alexander Hamilton, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The fatal weapon has changed hands many times, and has had an interesting career. Its authenticity is unquestionable. Judge Van Ness, who was Burr's second, marked the pistol and gave it to Col. James Bowie, together with its mate, the Hamilton pistol. Col. Bowie wore the pair as belt pistols, but lost one pistol while swimming a layout. He afterward presented the remaining weapon to Dr. Carr, the superintendent of the United States arsenal at Baltimore. Dr. Carr acted as second to Thomas F. Marshall of Versailles, the Kentucky orator and statesman, in his duel with James Watson Webb, editor of the New York Courier and Enquirer, in which Webb was crippled for life. Dr. Carr then gave the Burr pistol to Mr. Marshall, who subsequently presented it to his brother, Edward C. Marshall. The latter carried it through the Mexican war. It was stolen from him by his body servant, but, through a miracle, was located in the City of Mexico and recovered by one of his soldiers. Capt. Marshall, before his death, gave the pistol to his son, Louis Marshall. Thomas F. Marshall, while it was in his possession, had the dueling pistol altered from a flint to a percussion lock. It still shoots very accurately and carries a two-ounce ball. Its barrel, which is twelve inches long, looks more like a section of a shotgun than anything else, while the handle is marked twice with the "X" sign, which meant in the palmy days of dueling that the weapon had done fatal work.

DANGER IN NEWSPAPERS.

The Loss of Eighty Quarts of Milk.

For several weeks past the streets in the extreme southern section of the city have been littered with papers, handbills and other rubbish of all sorts and sizes, says the Philadelphia Record. The evil is due in a measure to the habit of certain merchants of the neighborhood who, to advertise their wares, have flooded the district with printed "dodgers" both large and small. This condition of affairs led to an accident recently which might have proved serious. A milk wagon drawn by a meek-looking brown horse was jogging peacefully along Ritner street, near 12th, when suddenly a double sheet of a newspaper borne along by the wind swooped down upon the horse's head. The paper struck there and twisting itself about the frightened brute's head transformed that formerly peaceful animal into a perfect demon. With a wild flourish of its hind legs which shattered the dashboard of the wagon the horse, blindfolded as it was with the paper, tore furiously down Ritner street. The wagon struck a pile of stones and although it was not overturned the milk cans were, and their contents poured into a mortar bed which lay along the south side of the street, where a row of new houses was being erected. At the same time the traces broke and the horse, floundering into a bed of sand, fell in a heap. Then another gust of wind came along, whisked the newspaper off the horse's head and carried it over an adjoining house top. The horse was captured and found to be uninjured, but the milkman bemoaned the loss of eighty quarts of milk.

The Sentimental Southern Girl.

The typical woman is sentimental. She invests many prosaic things, animate and inanimate, with sentiment. She is sure to have, put away somewhere, keepsakes and tangible evidences of hours and moments of unalloyed happiness. As a school girl she treasures these in her writing desk or in some extra bureau drawer. When she has grown older and practicalities smother sentiment, she banishes them to a seldom opened trunk in a remote corner. But she treasures them still—the broken fan that was restored to her by one whose very failings she guards jealously, for the sake of what she once thought he was. The fan was too delicate to admit of mending. He tried to have it mended, she remembers. There are other things locked away in the trunk—the verses sent to her by a girl friend who was her bridesmaid, the little faded velvet prayer book, with its ornate clasp as guarding something precious. There is the hand-wrought front breadth of a ball gown, too—a gown worn on a night when somebody whispered that she was the prettiest girl in the room.—Leslie's Weekly.

Dyed His Horse.

An enterprising dyer in Boston has conceived and executed the original idea of dyeing the horse that draws his delivery wagon in a vividly impressionist style that attracts wonder and attention wherever he goes. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals declines to interfere, because the dye is harmless and the horse can't see himself as others see him, so that his self-respect is not wounded. It is suggested that the fine arts commission ought to suppress the scandal in the interest of public taste.

DEATH DUE TO FALLING WIRES

More Persons Killed by These Than by Railroad Accidents.

We have recently had an opportunity to examine a batch of newspaper clippings giving accounts of accidents due to the falling of electric wires, says the Railroad Gazette. These clippings cover the months from May to September, inclusive, but it is not to be supposed that we have found in them reports of all or nearly all the accidents of that character which have taken place. We have found enough, however, to show that the matter is a very serious one. We find in the five months reports of 122 accidents due to falling trolley wires. In 11 of these accidents 12 persons were killed, and in 28 of them 31 persons were injured, and in 18 of them 24 horses were killed. During the same five months we find reports of 40 accidents from falling electric light and telephone wires, showing that 9 persons were killed in 9 accidents, 27 were injured in 22 accidents and 7 horses were killed. The nature of the accidents is very familiar; that is, a broken live wire falls into the street, and a passer-by steps on it or picks it up and gets a shock which is often fatal. We thus find, during this period, a total of 21 fatalities resulting from falling live wires of all kinds. At this rate of mortality, if it were kept up, 50 persons would be killed in the year. In 1895 there were 38 passengers killed in train accidents on all the steam railroads of the United States, so far as we have been able to ascertain. It appears, therefore, that more persons are killed by live-wire accidents than are passengers in railroad train accidents and the difference might be still greater if complete statistics of the former were obtained. There have been widespread and persistent efforts made by the public in various ways for many years to minimize train accidents by legislation and by agitation in the press and by investigation and recommendations on the part of railroad commissions, but the serious mortality due to live-wire accidents does not appear to have attracted much attention from the public. There are simple and obvious means, which we suppose are not very expensive, for preventing accidents of this class; but until the public realizes the seriousness of the situation and the practicability of remedying it probably little will be done. We suggest this subject as an interesting one for the daily newspapers.

Couldn't Tell.

In one of the Carolinas a suave and astute gentleman resides, who has experienced a great number of political changes of heart. Bourbon Democrat, tearful Populist, ruddy Republican—all these things he has been by turns, and some of them more than once, and even his friends and supporters have their joke concerning his ability to perceive which side "is" and "to be" buttered, and the facility with which he modifies his opinions accordingly. Last September some hundreds of voters were assembled in the borough which he hoped to control for his own and the country's weal to listen to the latest revision of his views and decide whether they would send him to his desired congressional haven or not. Among them were John, well known of all the townspeople for a fool, and a just arrived Jerseyman, who knew nobody and desired local information. "Will you kindly tell me, sir, what Mr. X's politics are?" he asked John, politely.

The respectful tone, the unfamiliar "sir," filled John's dim soul with pleasure, for he rose proudly and loudly to the occasion: "I'm sorry I can't tell you, sir, what Mr. X's politics are, sir. I ain't seen him today, sir."—New York Tribune.

A Surprised Preacher.

When a clergyman in the course of his sermon asks a question, he doesn't expect any one to answer it. Should one of the congregation reply, the preacher would be as much astonished as was the minister of whom the New York Tribune tells this anecdote:

At a watch night service at St. Paul's church, Brixton, England, the vicar, the Rev. Carnegie Brown, was preaching a sermon on the Prodigal Son, in the course of which he said:

"Last year some people came to watch night service from a neighboring public house, and some of them were drunk. Is there any one here like that tonight?"

"Yes," said a respectable looking man seated in the aisle; "I'm here, and I'm drunk."

The effect on the congregation was electrical. The preacher was startled for a moment, but after saying, "Poor fellow, poor fellow," proceeded with his discourse.

"I tell you I'm drunk," said the intruder.

"Hold your tongue," said the vicar. "I am speaking now, and must not be interrupted."

Mrs. Langtry's Epitaph.

Mrs. Langtry's epitaph should be her own words:

"I always treated Mr. Langtry with affection, never giving him cause to disregard his duty toward me as my husband." Witnesses: H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, "Squire" Abingdon Baird, Sir George Chetwynd, Marquis of Lonsdale, Robert Peel, Lord Rosslyn and Frederick Gebhard.
